The long-looked for opportunity was preented a few days ago through the generthe building No. 609 C street northwest. The building is five stories high, the secof and third floors being used as halls. Mr. Butler has kindly offered the library sociation the use of the third story free f rent for one year, and will also do all n his power in other ways to forward the erests of the association The offer was considered with proper appreciation, and a vote of thanks tendered Mr. Bailer for his kindness and consideraion, and a committee appointed to call on sim to inform him of the action taken and also to make final arrangements for the eceptance of his offer-

While the ball offered by Mr. Butler s, perhaps, as large as the one now oc-upped by the association, the general penton of the members that there would be ery little advantage in moving, unless e hall on the second floor, could also be ecured. The committee, which will wait on Mr. Butler, will consequently negotiate for a lease of both balls, and if satisfactory terms can be made the bargain will be closed at once, and the removal to the ew quarters made as soon as practicable. The association rents its hall to several of the local organizations and so, practically occupies its present quarters free of rent. These organizations are all con tributing members of the Library Association, and there is no fear but that they reguld continue their otenancy in the new quarters. In the event, however, of one or more of the present tenants of the association refusing to move, it is known that there are others only too anxious, in this way, to outribute to the support of the library

CLEARED BY HYPNOTISM

Hanson Proved That He Was Not a Murderer.

WAS A MOST ASTONISHING TEST

After He Had Answered Many Questions Showing His Innocence, a Hatpin Was Thrust Through His Cheek to Show That He Was Not Shamming.

Galveston, Tex., Jan. 2.-William Hanson, who was arrested on suspicion of having murdered Samuel Martin, a labor leader, whose body was found in the bay with 100 pounds of iron tied about the neck, was hypnotized and questioned in detail about the crime. While in the lethargic state he confessed that Martin had reason to be jealous of him; that Mrs. Martin intended to get a divorce and become Mrs. Hanson, but he denied all knowledge of how the murder was committed, and repeated the story he told the police when arrested.

Prof. Loska Did the Werk.

Hanson was hypnotized by Prof. Laska, a peripatetic lecturer, who came to Galeston a few days ago to give exhibitious of his proficiency in hypnotism. Laska was sent for by the chief of pelice this morning. He had never seen Hanson. He said he would be glad to try his hand on the suspected man. Then Hanson was asked if her would agree to the arrange ment. He expressed willingness to be put to any test.

The professor and the prisoner were then introduced. Laska said be would like to ee what sort of a subject Hanson was He began work on him, and in a few minutes Hanson seemed to be wholly under the professor's control. To prove the suspected man was not shamming, a woman's hatpin was jabbed into Hanson's cheek.

The subject did not flinch, and when the hatpin was polled out of the flesh, no blood flowed from the wound. Then the man's arm was put in a cataleptic state, and the nost powerful detective on the force was isked to bend it. He did not succeed. Then Laska awakened Hauson, told him be was a fine subject, and, after consulting wanted the test made at noon in the presence more witnesses, the professor said: "Mr. Hanson, I'm going away; you will

e asteep when I return at 12 o'clock." Got Very Drowsy.

The chief of police and half a dozen detectives and reporters remained in the room with the prisoner after the hypnotist departed. Shortly before noon Horson cerned to become drowsy. He lay down, and apparently was in a deep slamber in a few moments. Laska returning, the detectives were told to awaken the prisoper. They tried to do so by shaking and slapping him and by shouting in his ears, but without avail. The hypnotist rubbed the prisoner's face many times, instructed him to sleep soundly, and then said: "When you open your eyes you will see Sam-the murdered man-stand ing before you. Open your eyes. Hanson's eyes opened. Chief of Police

Jones was standing directly in front of the "Do you remember the quarrel we had, William?" the chief asked. "We had no quarrel, Sam," Hanson re-

"Yes, we did."

"No. Sam; we never had but one quarrel, and that did not amount to anything." "Didn't I tell you that if I caught you around my house I would kill you?" "No, Sam; you never told me anything of the kind."

"Did we not have a quarrel?" "Yes; but you said you did not mean m when you said you would kill him." Who "him" is could not be ascertained.

Hanson Was Unconcerned. Then the professor showed how he could make the subject believe the chief of po ec was Mrs. Martin. The chief, posing is Mrs. Martin, put a new set of questions to the recumbent man. Hanson addressed he chief familiarly as "Ciero," and when sked to tell what he knew about the murler he repeated the story he had told the police when arrested.

For nearly an hour the prisoner was subected to every sort of question the spec tators suggested. To the question as to whether he thought Martin was murdered he replied affirmatively, saying he believed he wound in the head wasmade with an ax-When released from the hypnotic state lanson did not show any undue desire to learn what he had said. The police said hey were fully satisfied with the test made, but later in the afternoon Hanson vas again hypnotized in order that some further questions might be propounded to sim. A spectator asked the privilege of interrogating the suspected man. Hanson was told the spectator was Mrs. Martin Again he addressed the supposed Mrs. Martin familiarly. "William," said the questioner. "I'v urned state's evidence and confessed how we murdered Sam."

"If you say I murdered Sam you lie."

Stopped the Seance. At this juncture Chief of Police Jones stopped the scance. He said he did not consider it fair to the prisoner to subject him to any further interrogation, and the professor awakened the subject. Hanson put to him during the long test at noon were some about his relations with Mrs. Martin. He burst into tears and cried: "Oh, what have I done? What have I done?" He was informed what he had said. The police say he has acknowledged the truth of the agreement existing between him and Mrs. Martin for their marriage as soon as she got a divorce, but they deciare they are perfectly satisfied he had nothing to do with the murder, and that he will be released if a few facts that bear against him are satisfactorily accounted

FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER.

Jury Out in Bram Case for Twentyfour Hours.

Boston, Jan. 2 .- Thomas Bram, mate of the barkentine Herbert Fuller, was found guilty today of the murders committed on that vessel last July. The jury went out at 1:30 p. m. yesterday. At 10 o'clock this morning they reported that they could not agree. Judge Colt directed them to retire for further consultation. They were again locked up with the result that at 3:40 p. m., they announced a verdict of

The murder was one of the strangest of sea tragedies. On July 21 last the marine observer at Halifax, N. S., made out a vessel coming slowly into the harbor, flying the Stars and Stripes at half most, indicat ing death, and a black flag beneath it. This meant mutiny.

The police were turned out in a hurry and sent out to meet the vessel. She was the American barkentine Herbert Fuller 670 tons, of Harrington, Me. In her cabin lay the bodies of Capt, Nash, the captain's wife, and the second mate, Ramberg, the cook, and a young Harvard student, named Lester H. Monks, in charge of the ship, while Seaman Charles Brown and Mate Tomas Bram were in irons on deck.

The story was a horrible one. On Mon-day night, July 13, Monks, who was a nger on the vessel, which had sailed from Rosano, Argentina, was awakened by a woman's screams. He jumped up, groped his way to the chart room where the captain slept. He put his hand in the berth and drew it away smeared with blood.

He at once made for the deck and met Mate Bram, who made a lunge at him with a piece of lumber. Monks drew a revolver and covered Bram. Monks and the cook took charge, of the vessel, put the first mate, Brain, in irons, and naviented to Halifax.

Bram was convicted on the evidence of Seaman Brown, who testified that he aw the murders. Brown was at the wheel that night and he said that he saw Bram strike Capt. Nash with an ax. No motive for the murder was brought ut at the trial and there was strong feelng in some quarters that Bram was not Suffering With Hemorrhage of Brain-Other Bouts.

New York, Jan. 2 .- During one of the poxing bouts at the Broadway Athletic Club this evening, James Duffy of Boston was so severely punished by George Justice of the Nonpareil Club of this city, that he was carried from the ring unconscious. Later he was removed to St. Vincent's

The doctors say he is suffering from hemorrhage of the brain and will probably die. His opponent was arrested and locked up to await the result of Duffy's injuries.

Dr Bryant and Dr. Stewart performed an operation on Duffy at 1 o'clock this from cerebral hemorrhage and they thought his injuries were he result of a blow.

Another bout of ten rounds at 110 pounds, between Frank McSpadder and Jimmy Tolly was declared a draw. The next event was between Andy Caplo and Billy Weish, who fought at 125 pounds They were booked for ten rounds. fight partook of the nature of a circus from the start, Weish ambling about and bounding against the ropes in his efforts to keep away from his antagonist. He took a great deal of punishment, but before the pummeiling became brutal Police Captain Groo sent up word to stop the bout, and the referee gave a decision for Cuplo. The fourth bout was stopped in the first round. It was between George Clare, of Long Island City, and "Jim" Scally, of Providence. Scally started in to punish his man at the start and succeeded in getting himself winded. Clare had the fight all his own way.

Inspector Allaire, who was near the ring, raised his hand and the fight was #### stopped, the decision going to Clare. LACEY'S LONG CHASE.

Had a Hot Run to Catch Suspected

Thief.

Barry Lewis, colored, twenty-one years old, who has been wanted for several days by the police, was captured yesterday by Detectives Helan and Lacey. Lewis it is thought, stole a valuable seaskin sacque from the home of Mrs. Little, on Wash ington Heights. The theft was reported at police head quarters last Monday and Detectives Helan and Lacey were assigned to the case They learned that Lewis was at the house on the night of the robbery but were unable to locate him until yesterday.

Yesterday morning the detectives started out to search the city for their man and kept it up all day. Late in the afternoon they separated, Detective Helan going to the young man's home, while his partne searched the wharves and river front, where Lewis is often seen.

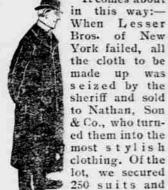

Just at evening Detective Lacey cam upon the colored man and attempted to place him under arrest. Lewis took to his heels and led the officer a long chase over the docks and lumber piles in the vicinity. With the assistance of Policeman Cooney theman was eventually captured and taken to police headquarters. When questioned he refused to either admit or deny hat he had committed the theft. He was locked up at the New Jersey avenue

Thought Death Was Accidental. The body of Louis Butler, who was found lead in the American House yesterday, was taken in charge by Undertaker Murry yeserday afternoon and removed to Anac Coroner Hammett, who investigated the circumstances of the young man's death stated that he was of the opinion that it was accidental. The coroner said he had not as yet issued a certificate, but would probably do so on Monday.
